

LOOK FOR BIG VOTE IN CITY ELECTION TOMORROW

2 CANDIDATES UNOPPOSED ON APRIL BALLOT

Polling Places Open from 6 A. M. Tuesday to 8 P. M.

With contests for all but two offices, Appleton will close its officials at the spring election on Tuesday, April 3. Seven of the officers to be elected are school officials. Fred E. Bachman and Alfred C. Bosser, who are seeking reelection as treasurer and assessor, are the only candidates unopposed. In view of the intense rivalry, more than an average vote is expected. Mayor John Goodland is opposed in his candidacy for reelection by Albert C. Rule, city assessor. That the vote between these candidates will be close is indicated in the result of the primary election in which Mr. Rule led the incumbent by 145 votes.

George L. Peotter, building inspector, and Charles Schimpf are the candidates for city assessor. They led the field of four candidates in the primary. Aldermanic candidates are: First ward—Marcus Steinhauer, James A. Wood. Second ward—William Konrad, Charles D. Thompson. Third ward—Frank Groh, George T. Richard. Fourth ward—Jerry Callahan, Charles J. Selig. Fifth ward—Richard Artman, Wenzel Hasselmann. Sixth ward—Fred W. Wiese, Robert C. Ziske.

Nine candidates seven of whom will be elected, are seeking office as school commissioners. They are John P. Behnke, William J. Eggert, Axel Fahlstrom, I. Hugo Keller, John Trautmann, Thomas H. Kress, Charles Bremick, William H. Ryan and Mabel O. Shannon.

Since the city voted to adopt the union school system some months ago, the school board will no longer be composed of men representing each ward but rather by seven commissioners elected from the city at large. This board of commissioners will be in control of all the public schools of the city with the exception of the Vocational school. It will take the place of the four district boards and the high school board.

Judge Theodore Berg of municipal court, who was appointed last year by Governor John J. Blaine to succeed the late Judge A. M. Spencer until the next spring election is unopposed in his candidacy for election to fill the unexpired term of Judge Spencer. The county also will elect a new judge for Judge Franz Eschweiler, Milwaukee, who is seeking reelection to the Supreme court bench.

The polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock in the evening at the regular polling places. They are located as follows: First ward—first precinct, First ward school building; second precinct, Store Bldg. 122 E. College-ave. Second ward—first precinct, 109 N. Durkee st.; second precinct, Bacon st. and hall S. Omaha.

Third ward—first precinct, 120 E. 1st st.; 127 W. College-ave. second precinct, corner Spencer and Outagamie sts.

Fourth ward—first precinct, Maple Grove and Walker ave. second precinct, school grounds Jefferson and McKinley ave.

Fifth ward—Public Service Bldg. 606 E. College-ave. second precinct, corner Richmond and Washington sts. Sixth ward—first precinct, 229 E. Commercial st.; second precinct, 505 N. Appleton st.

Fair tonight Tuesday increasing cloudiness, becoming unsettled by night. Continued cold.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

A trough of low pressure extends from the St. Lawrence valley southward to Oklahoma, and thence northwest to the intermountain region this morning. Areas of unsettled weather accompany it and with nearly normal temperatures south of its trough and above normal northward to the mountains. High pressure overlies the middle and northern plains states with generally fair weather and with temperatures much below the seasonal normal. This "high" appears to be spreading over this section, which is favorable for generally fair and continued cold weather here over Tuesday, becoming unsettled again after the "high" passes.

BROTHERS TAKE ESTATE FIGHT TO HIGH COURT

Sale of Farm Owned Jointly by Brothers Held Up Because One Won't Sign Quit Claim Deed

The case of Edward Nelson and James Nelson, brothers, will come up in Supreme court Thursday for argument. Lonsdorf and Stadel are attorneys for the plaintiff and Joseph Wimmer is counsel for the defendant.

This is a case wherein the plaintiff is seeking the confirmation of a decision in municipal court, in which the plaintiff claims that the defendant does not have legal grounds on which to refuse to sign a quit claim in the matter of the estate of a deceased third brother.

The deceased brother, Albert, was a partner with Edward in a farm in Kaukauna. They were bachelors. Albert died and Edward and James, with a fourth brother, Henry, agreed to divide the property. Their agreement was made in writing with Edward taking the farm and James and Henry the personal property, which amounted to $2,100.

Edward was appointed administrator and sold the livestock. He wanted to sell the farm but couldn't as James refused to sign a quit claim. Henry, however, signed.

James' reason for not signing is really the point of the case. He claimed that Edward agreed he would not associate with a certain man, one Lambert Maynard, who is now deceased. But this matter was not in writing and when the case was tried in municipal court, the judge ruled out all testimony about Maynard and gave the plaintiff the judgment. The defense appealed to Supreme court and the matter was set for next Thursday.

James O'Leary of Kaukauna, Ill., and Miss Mary O'Leary of South Bend, Ind. are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. O'Leary, W. Eighth-st. over the Easter holidays.

DRIVER PICKED POOR TIME TO BREAK ROAD LAW

It cost Theodore Delrow, 502 S. State-st., $13.40 to learn that it does not pay to pick on a police officer when one wants to do a little road hogging.

The lesson was inflicted by Judge Berg of municipal court Monday. At 8 a. m. while Albert Deltgen, police patrol driver was motoring near W. College-ave. and E. Walnut-st., he saw Delrow, who delivers for a local laundry, suddenly drive his automobile from the right hand side curb to the left hand side curb and forced Deltgen's car up on the sidewalk and almost into the Hopfensperger meat market.

Delrow was arrested and taken into municipal court.

Claire Brill and Miss Mary Miller of Chicago, visited Mr. Brill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brill, Sunday.

HUGE CHOIR IS FAULTLESS IN 'STABAT MATER'

Appreciative Audience Hears
Splendid Program at Third
Easter Festival

Displaying an exactness and preciseness in tone quality and shading which showed the result of many hours of diligent rehearsal, Protestant church choirs and the schola cantorum of Lawrence college presented Rossini's "Stabat Mater" to an appreciative audience Sunday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. It was Appleton's third Easter music festival. The solo parts of the oratorio were taken by Isabel Richardson Molter, soprano; Barbara Wait, contralto; George Cuthbertson, tenor; and Carl McKee, bass. Carl J. Waterman, dean of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, trained and directed the singers in the oratorio.

Chorus numbers which were especially well sung were "Thou Hast Tried Our Hearts," a recitative for baritone and chorus, "When Thou Comest to the Judgment," an aria for soprano and chorus and the favorite "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah, the concluding number on the program.

In the second of these numbers, the aria for soprano and chorus, Mme. Molter carried the obligatory part in an exceptionally fine style, bringing out to the best advantage the clearness of tone and the power of her well trained dramatic soprano voice. The proficiency of the choir in releasing and attacking tones was well demonstrated in this number. Another outstanding feature of the selection was the delicate shading by the singers.

Carl McKee, instructor at the conservatory of music, showed marked ability in his aria "Lord Thy Mercy Shall Restore Me" and also in his recitative part with the chorus in "Thou Hast Tried Our Hearts."

Barbara Wait, contralto, has a rich mellow voice which well brought out in the aria "I Will Sing of Thy Great Mercy" and in her duet with Mme. Molter, "Power Eternal Judge and Father." This duet was one of the most beautiful numbers on the oratorio program and was enthusiastically received by the audience.

George Cuthbertson, tenor, displayed fine talent and a real knowledge of music in his solo, "O Son of David" and in the tenor aria "Lord, Vouchsafe Thy Loving Kindness." Another solo which was exceptionally well done was the old favorite, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" sung by Mme. Molter.

The selection which inspired and thrilled the listeners most was without doubt the "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah. When the choral was struck for this, the final number of the oratorio, the audience rose and remained standing throughout the selection partly out of deference to the world famous chorus and partly out of respect to Dean Waterman and the members of the festival choir for their splendid work.

A review of the oratorio would not be complete without some mention of the work of the conservatory string orchestra, which accompanied the singers. The orchestra is directed by Percy Fullinwider and has practiced faithfully for many months in preparation for the festival. Its interpretation of the difficult oratorio selections Sunday evening was almost faultless.

He was caught after he offered a check for $34.50 at the Husman-Perron store, 518 W. College-ave, in payment for an overcoat.

Cinderella Man Is Proud Of His Notoriety

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

New York—Edward W. Browning, Manhattan's "Cinderella man," lives in a fantastic world where Lechins lives in 57 when they ride forth and where Remoos sign contracts with the left hand while clinking preciously to a Juliet balcony with the right.

Through this world dance lovely young sprites, who keep alive in the watcher the illusion of romance and youth—because the sprites possess both.

But step into his office for a moment and perhaps you will understand a bit better.

Obviously it is a real estate office. The sign on the door says so. This Browning, it seems, is lord of some 50 fine apartments and rentals come regularly from many hundred people. Collection and maintenance of such constitutes a vast amount of shrewd business.

No Girl Workers

But in the very outfitting of the place there is contradiction. Here and there about a waiting room are beautifully carved teakwood chairs, suggesting the Orient and elegance.

The first thing one notices is that there are no women employees about. Strange, one thinks, for a man whose name has been linked with romance from one end of the nation to the other. Somehow, young and lovely stenographers had been anticipated.

Instead the doors open and shut and through them walk mature men. Most of them are past middle age. Several are gray-headed. They hob in and out, with papers to sign and checks to endorse.

But from the walls are reflected a glimpse at the other, and very contradictory world.

Pictures Of Proteges

Framed upon the wall are photographs of girls of 15, or thereabouts dressed in middies and bloomers playing basketball, or lined up "for their pictures" after the game.

To "Cinderella man," presents silver trophies or prize-winning medals, or class pins, or whatever strikes his fancy. And, with his wealth, he can afford to have such fancies as he will—as was demonstrated when his efforts at adopting Mary Spas brought him to public notice.

Then there is a picture of a large catch of trout. The "Cinderella man" smiles.

There was a five-minute catch of "Mary Sunshine," whom he has adopted. She is now attending a private school.

Meanwhile there has come Frances Heenan, 15, casual acquaintance of a dancing party, to "refill his life with joy." Not only is he desirous of marrying the child, but quite as prepared to wave the magic wand that would bring an imagined luxury.

Fairy Aid

This, apparently, is the gesture that pleases most "the Cinderella man." He is not content to take girls and let them struggle through to their own destiny, building character and gathering acumen as they go. He does not search out their ambitions and help toward the realization.

His is the "fairy tale" idea: to have luxury and ease and elegance fall upon these without effort. Obviously he is well acquainted with young dreams. He would give them education and teach them the social refinements.

"I like girls who are young enough to have lost their sensibility," he told me. "I like them feminine, young, unspoiled by the world, to a certain extent dependent."

"I like health, the glowing, exuberant sort that puts color in a girl's cheeks and sparkle in her eyes. Stage beauties give me no pleasure. I should never willingly consent to have a child of mine or a woman I loved on the stage. I hate make-believe and tinsel."

He not only disapproves of the stage, but of the professional and business woman.

"The business woman is too hard and calculating," he explained. "The professional woman is always self-centered. Both lose something very charming and sweet when they become self-supporting."

Proud Of Notoriety

Probably that is the reason there are no women working in Browning's office.

Apparently he sees nothing incongruous in the December and May combination. He truly believes the Cinderella legend.

He showed me with a great pride a drawer of clippings he had received as one day's installment from his clipping bureau—some of these quite complimentary. "I'm sure," he told me of his difficulties in wading through the 40,000 letters he has received from girls wanting to be adopted. He did not dislike his notoriety.

His hair is more gray than white. He is not particularly young looking for his age, though he does not suggest extreme age. He says three hours sleep a night is quite sufficient for him and that four is ample.

For what is sleep in a world where Remoos are 57?

NAVIGATION OPENS BUT BOATS CAN'T OPERATE

Though the Fox river from Menasha to De Pere was opened to navigation Monday morning, the condition of the river in general probably will prevent any traffic for some time, according to the United States engineers office on S. Oneida-st. Not a boat had passed through this city up to noon and the officials stated that it was not likely any would arrive during the day. The canal was partly filled with ice, it was said.

Library Board Meets
Trustees of the Appleton public library will hold their meeting at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon at the library building. Routine business matters will be taken up.

ASYLUM INMATES HEAR PROGRAM

Hi-Y Boys and Y. M. C. A. Officers Conduct Easter Sunday Services

Seven members of the Hi-Y club accompanied by George P. Werner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and John Pugh, boys' work secretary, presented an Easter program for inmates of Outagamie-co asylum Sunday afternoon. The club quartet consisting of John Catlin, Glen Opperman, Harold Bads and Arthur Smith sang a group of songs. John Catlin played a number of harmonica selections and Mr. Werner gave a short talk. The quartet was forced to sing several encore numbers and the program was so pleasing that the boys were invited to present another in the near future.

Mr. Werner took the place of W. E. Smith, chairman of the boys' work committee, who was called to New London. He talked on the Book of Books. He said people could get great joy and comfort out of life by reading the Bible. He also gave a short talk on the meaning of Easter.

The program was the first of a series of weekly services which will be presented at the asylum by the Appleton Ministerial association. The Hi-Y boys took the place of the ministers who were busy with their own Easter services this Sunday.

Next Sunday Dr. H. E. Peabody of First Congregational church will be the speaker at the asylum and he will speak once a month for the next two months. Other members of the ministerial association will talk at the asylum on the remaining Sundays of April, May and June.

1 MAN INJURED 4 CARS DAMAGED IN 2 COLLISIONS

Youth Taken to Hospital After
Crash on W. College-ave
Sunday Evening

Two accidents occurred on Appleton streets early Monday morning and Sunday night when the streets were covered with snow. One person was injured and four automobiles were damaged.

Orville Schneider, 18, 221 N. Madison-st, is in St. Elizabeth hospital with a badly cut face as the result of one of the accidents. The mishap occurred at 10:55 Sunday night, during the snow storm, at the intersection of W. College-ave and N. Richmond-st.

According to eye-witnesses, police say, Martin Van Ryzin, Jr., 114 W. Foster-st, was going east on College-ave when Leonard Voigt, Route 2, Appleton, who was also going east on College-ave, ran into the Van Ryzin car. Schneider, who was riding with Voigt, suffered about the nose when the windshield of the Voigt car was shattered.

A right rear wheel was broken and the right rear fender bent on the Van Ryzin car.

Officers Carl Radtke and Kubersson hurried Schneider to the hospital where it was stated Monday that his injuries are not serious.

At 1:30 o'clock Monday morning two automobiles were damaged when they collided in front of the Coney Island restaurant, 313 E. College-ave. The accident occurred when John Coiman, 516 W. Lawrence-st, backed out from the curbing and was struck by a Red Top cab driven by Bernard Benini, who was driving east on W. College-ave.

SOLO CAMPAIGN FOR ZIMMERMAN

Secretary of State Won't Be Tied to Ticket in Race for Gubernatorial Nomination

Madison — (AP)—Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman will conduct an independent campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

It was made known at his office Monday that Mr. Zimmerman does not intend to head a complete state ticket in the primaries next September. There have been unofficial reports that certain persons were possible candidates for state office on a ticket which would include the present secretary of state.

A spokesman for Mr. Zimmerman said unofficially that he would refrain from endorsing any candidates for other state offices. Instead, he will make a personal campaign, depending solely on his own popularity for success. It was indicated that he would not even place himself under the banner of any individual candidate for United States senator.

Two candidates already have made known their intention to be candidates for the Republican nomination for secretary of state. They are Theodore Dammann, Milwaukee, who announced his candidacy recently, and John A. Kaiser, Port Washington, who has advised friends that he will open headquarters in the Republican House, Milwaukee.

APPLETON AGAIN IS THRILLED BY ST. OLAF CHOIR

Wonderful College Singing
Organization Adds to Affection Here

St. Olaf college choir lost none of the high regard in which it is held by Appleton people in its concert in Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday afternoon. Under the brilliant leadership of E. Melius Christiansen, the peerless choir ascended new heights and is more firmly imbedded in the affections of Appleton music lovers than ever before.

It is difficult to describe the concert because only superlatives can be used. There wasn't the slightest indication of a lull in the program and the well drilled choristers sang their parts with the abandon one would expect only in rehearsal. Stage fright difference are entirely foreign to the choir, so far as appearances indicate.

The great mystery of the choir is in the wonderful harmony without music, without even a tuning fork. Only

FIVE ARRESTED FOR VIOLATING TRAFFIC RULES

Police in Weekend Drive on Autoists to Enforce Obedience to Law

Five more arrests were made over the weekend by the Appleton police for violation of city traffic laws. Parking in front of theaters is the most prominent offense, three of those arrested being cited for that charge. The other two were divided, with one an alleged speeder and the other failing to stop his auto for an arterial highway.

Don Zimmerman of Fond du Lac was arrested by Police Sergeant Vandergart Sunday at the corner of W. Elsie-st and N. Richmond-st. The

Mrs. E. Saecker, 914 E. Hancock-st, was arrested Saturday by Detective Sergeant Dural for parking in front of the theater. She paid a fine and costs amounting to $4.20.

Robert E. Gallagher, 19, 223 N. Green Bay-st, was arrested Saturday by Motorcycle Officer Carl Radtke for driving his car 28 miles an hour on W. Prospect-ave. He was ordered to appear Monday in municipal court to face the charge of exceeding the speed limit.

J. L. Power, 28, 602 E. Harrison-st, was arrested by Officer Bayer at 5:10 o'clock Saturday night for parking his car in front of the Majestic theater. He was taken to the station, paid a fine and costs amounting to $4.20 and was released.

Mrs. W. K. Gerbricker Neenan, was arrested by Officer Bayer Saturday for parking her car in front of the Majestic theater. She was ordered to appear in court Monday.

Gallagher was fined $13.30 and Mrs. Gerbricker was fined $4.20 when they appeared in municipal court Monday.

ALL GOOD CITIZENS WILL VOTE TOMORROW
Stockholders in the corporation of Appleton, Wis., will elect their executives and directors in tomorrow's election. They will be elected for terms of two years and, unlike private corporations, there is little chance for removing them before expiration of their terms if they do not give satisfactory service. Therefore it behooves stockholders—who are the voters—to make their choice with care tomorrow. The men and women they elect will have charge of a corporation worth about $30,000,000 which spends nearly a million dollars a year. Too much care cannot be exercised in selecting the persons to take charge of so mammoth a business.
Voters tomorrow will elect a mayor, treasurer, assessor, attorney, six councilmen, seven school commissioners and two judges. There are a sufficient number of candidates for most of the offices to permit a choice, and voters will be negligent in performance of their duty if they do not exercise this choice. All good citizens will go to the polls tomorrow.

THE WILD EAST
About as sharp a dig as has ever been taken at the silly gun-toting propensities of American householders is the statement just made by Superintendent Albright of Yellowstone National park that "the westerner no longer carries guns or revolvers, but the easterner loads himself with an arsenal of weapons."
Mr. Albright is in a position to speak with authority. He has to disarm all auto parties entering the park. He reports: "In the sealing of firearms to prevent crime or the killing of animals, it is rare that a family from these mountain states has even one gun or pistol, but you ought to see the arsenal that is sometimes presented by a New York or Illinois or Pennsylvania automobile."
The frontier, it seems, has bumped into the Pacific after the long trek west, and boomeranged to our supposedly safe and demure settlements east of the plains. The wild west is the safe, sane and well policed west; the effete east has topsy-turried into the wild east, the gun-on-the-hip-and-under-the-pillow east.
But there is this important distinction. In the old west, the man with a gun knew how and when to use it. The wild east, with the assistance of postoffice authorities who ship young armories by mail order, puts deadly weapons in the hands of flapper shebas and drug store cowboys, children in age and children mentally; halfwits and weaklings, the demented and the uncontrollable of temper.
These weapons are of practically no assistance against the really criminal classes who know how to shoot; but they do provide a constant toll of "accidents," shootings of playmates, hairtrigger killings of mothers and sweethearts and husbands which never would have occurred but for the awful temptation of death at a finger's pull in a moment's flash of anger.
"A person is ten times more safe," says the Yellowstone chief, "in the Jackson hole in Wyoming or Yellowstone park's most remote corner than he is on any street corner in Chicago." Mr. Albright is right, but he is too conservative in his figure.

THE GULF WATERWAY AND THE LAKES
In his report this week Major General Harry Taylor, chief of army engineers, remarks upon the "possibility" of a channel nine feet deep and two hundred feet wide through Illinois to the Mississippi with the present 8,250 c. f. s. diversion from Lake Michigan.

Possible, no doubt, such a channel would be; but is it economical, practicable or just?
Briefly, is it worth the continued taking of that amount of water from the lakes—an amount equivalent to a withdrawal of between four and five inches of badly needed harbor depth?
Granting the gulf waterway to be an excellent proposition in which the lake as well as Mississippi states are interested, would the superiorities of a nine-foot, high withdrawal barge-way be sufficiently great as contrasted to an eight-foot barge-way withdrawing about half that amount to justify the difference.
But much more important than this smaller question as to the disposal of two or three inches of lake level is the open and obvious inquiry why it is necessary for congress to attempt the settlement of involved issues of this type at all, at least for the present. A preliminary of much greater significance comes first, and in any sane program must be attended to before we approach the details of lake diversion permits.
That preliminary is the drawing up and adoption of a Canadian-American international program of lake level regulation under which engineering works will be constructed to offset not one but the many diversions which are at present disturbing the lakes. Once this program is fairly under way it will be immaterial to Michigan, for example, whether the gulf waterway is eight or nine feet deep. That, as well as the matter of diversions for power and deepenings for lake navigation, will be the subject of comprehensive and expert international action.
All of this merely emphasizes the advisability on congress' part of withholding its decision as to gulf waterway features and details until the broader and more permanently important problem of maintaining lake levels is settled with Canada. That attended to, our entire point of view on bargeways, seaways and canals of all sorts would be made over and much of the present sectional bickering eliminated for good and all.

THE FUNNIEST THREAT
Senator Robinson of Arkansas has suggested that the United States senate hold up the Italian debt settlement and use it as a threat, a queer kind of sword of Damocles, over Signor Mussolini. He can only have this favorable settlement, it is suggested that we inform him, if he behaves in the forthcoming disarmament conference.
In so many words, this threat would amount to: "We won't let you pay us what you have promised to pay unless you stop being warlike."
Some will say that is not the whole threat. The rest of it would be: "And we shall collect a bigger settlement than our debt commission agreed upon." That is even funnier: for in the absence of willingness on Italy's part, the only way we could collect would be by war, and the boiled down substance of our threat would be: "If you don't stop being warlike, we shall declare war on you."
The senator from Arkansas can talk like that for senatorial consumption but it is to be hoped congress as a whole will not make itself the world's laughing stock by repeating the joke.

LESS AND Milder Flu
Early in March a comparatively mild type of influenza swept epidemic in several widely separated communities in New York state. The attack was characterized by chills, high fever, general aches or pains such as are commonly associated with "grip," and considerable prostration. In some industrial communities the epidemic kept as many as 30 per cent of the workers absent for a few days. There was very little secondary pneumonia, however, and therefore very few fatalities.
A bulletin issued by the state health department informed the public that the only way to check the epidemic was for every one who developed the disease to take to bed promptly and stay there (if fully recovered). This, health authorities said, was not only the best treatment and the best way to prevent complications but also the best way to limit the spread of the disease.
Fine and dandy—as far as it goes. The bulletin said much more about the epidemic, but nothing more about the prevention of the disease. In fact one finds very little practicable preventive information for the laity in the huge quantities of copy provided for the press of the state by the health department. If quantity production were the criterion, I should say the New York state health department takes the pink pajamas for turning out publicity or newspaper copy. One virtue all this health department "news letter stuff" has—it is very dry and burns well.
Industrial concerns which suffered from absence of employees might be anxious to know whether any real preventive measures are worth while—that is, anything other than going to bed and staying there when you're sick.
The mouth spray has been found to have a range of not more than five feet in ordinary conversation and the range increases to as much as 12 feet if the individual perpetrates an open face cough or sneeze in the presence of his victims.
The air expired or breathed out by one coming down with or ill of any of the respiratory infections does not contain the germs or virus and is not contaminated or polluted any more than the air expired or breathed out by a healthy person is.
Now, then, the individual who comes to work, business, school or church, theater or indoor gathering of any description, having what purports to be a "slight cold," is a suspicious character and should be kept out of range by those who do not wish to take to bed promptly with the flu. Of course the New York health authorities could scarcely put the matter in this candid way, for they still believe in "winter colds"—at least they mention some such nonentity in this bulletin about the flu, though of course they would give a loud horse laugh if any doctor filed a report of a case of "winter cold."
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Oh, Doctor, how many of us are coming to this department day by day are from persons who call themselves "Doctors."
Some of the most valuable suggestions come from physicians, and for these, as well as any criticism, favorable or unfavorable, I feel indebted to many of the brethren.
On an idle Sarcastic afternoon recently I had occasion to look up the standing of a few of the "Doctors" who had written to me recently about one thing and another.
I found that almost invariably the fellow who called himself (on his notepad or letterhead) Dr. John J. Jinxer was some kind of short cut healer or shady quack. The real physicians, who are entitled to be addressed as "Doctor," almost invariably had their names printed thus: John J. Jinxer, M. D.

'Round the house there's something to be done, and I think that work is brewing for the wife is makin' plans that come each year. With the springtime now in season, there's no doubt that that's the reason why the dustin', cleanin', scrubbin' job is here.
All engagements we're droppin'. 'Steard of steppin' out, we're moppin'. To a married man the thought is understood. As the front rug is hangin' for its beatin' and it's bangin'—when the wife says, "beat it"—Gee, I wish I could.
In the yard, with an appalling, needs a thorough overhauling and the shovel, rake and hoe are put to use. Little gardens must be planned on. Raked up spots one must not stand on, are the places where real labor's put to use.

No one has ever given a satisfactory answer as to why they do it. 'T would be a simple thing to walk over to the curb, or up to a building side-out of the way. But that's the place they leave for you and I and the other fellow to go.
What do they talk about? Oh, about a half hour. Just long enough to provoke a flock of pedestrians.

Q. Why is Cupid called Dan Cupid?
C. C. B.
A. The title Dan is one of respect and of honor, corresponding to master or sir. It is applied, for example, to Cupid and to such a poet as Chaucer.
Q. What is the Curtis-Reed Bill? M. C.
A. The Curtis-Reed Bill which is offered in place of the Reed-Sterling Bill of the 68th Congress would create a Secretary of Education with a place in the Cabinet of the President, and would make a total initial appropriation of $1,500,000 to maintain the new department.
Q. What part of the Western Hemisphere has the most flowering plants?
S. S.
A. Costa Rica, about the size of West Virginia, has the richest variety of flowering plants and ferns of any area of its size in this hemisphere. Its known flora includes more than 6000 species. The United States and Canada, 130 times the size of the little republic, has only 16,000 species. Orchids are so common in Costa Rica that they almost fill the role of weeds according to a botanist, who is bringing back 1300 specimens of this flower.
Q. Who first suggested Croker's resemblance to a tiger? P. D.
A. A cartoon by Nast, published in 1892, first suggested this.
Q. What is the bird that flies over the Pacific Ocean that does not seem to move its wings? H. H. H.
A. The Biological Survey says that the habit of moving the wings only occasionally is a characteristic of gulls and albatrosses. It is believed that the bird you describe is one of the albatrosses.
Q. Why do people prefer white eggs?
A. D. L.
A. All people do not prefer them. It is known to poultry dealers that some cities prefer white eggs while brown eggs sell better in other places. The color of the egg does not determine its food value. Eggs of chickens that are properly raised and fed have the same food value.
Q. What is a cereal grass? E. A.
A. A cereal grass is any grass yielding farinaceous seeds suitable for food such as wheat, rice, maize, etc., also the seeds of grains so produced either in their original state or commercially prepared.
Q. Please identify the figures in "A Reading from Homer." A. H. D.
A. In Lawrence Alma Tadema's painting, a professional Greek reader and interpreter looks up from his scroll. A hunter lies on the floor. At the extreme left stands a traveler. The man with the harp is Phaoon. The beautiful woman is Scapho. The legend concerning the latter two has been incorporated in the painting.
Q. Is the tobacco crop increasing or decreasing in the United States? L. R. D.
A. The tobacco produced in the United States for the years 1921-22 to 1924-25 was as follows: 1921-22, 1,069,632,000 pounds; 1922-23, 1,246,887,000 pounds; 1923-24, 1,515,110,000 pounds; 1924-25, 1,242,523,000 pounds.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library
By ARNOLD MULDER

"THE VILLAGE VIRUS"
You probably do not recognize the title, "The Village Virus," as that of the best selling American novel of recent years. You do not recognize it because, when the book finally appeared, it had another title that you would instantly recognize. But for 145 years before it was put into type, the author has recently revealed in a magazine article, "The Village Virus" was the title under which he did all his thinking for the future novel.
"The Village Virus" was the original title of "Main Street." While he does not say so in so many words, Sinclair Lewis gives the impression that he himself did not make the change. "I am glad some one saved the book from that name," he says. "I was someone who felt that 'The Village Virus' was banal and without appeal and that that someone suggested 'Main Street,' the perfect title."
THOUGHT BOOK FAILURE
Lewis claims that he had been mentally at work on "The Village Virus" for 15 years before it was finally written. Meanwhile he wrote four other novels, many short stories and magazine articles. "But 'The Village Virus' was his first love and during all that period of fifteen years he kept collecting impressions for it. Then when he thought he was ready he took a year off and wrote it, expecting that it would be a financial failure. And the publishers expected that too. Carl Van Doren recently revealed the fact that the publishers of the book, whom he knows well personally, had privately predicted to him that the novel would not sell.
But of course author, publishers and manuscript readers were all wrong and the book was one of the best sellers of our time. While it is impossible to be certain, it is likely that under the title of "The Village Virus" the book would have been the failure that it was expected to be.
The story of "The Village Virus" illustrates how writers work. AS everybody knows "Main Street" is the story of a village doctor and wife. Originally it was to be the story of a doctor at all but of a village lawyer. But Lewis knew comparatively little about lawyers and a great deal about country doctors because his father was one, and so he changed the character into a doctor.
Carl Van Doren expressed the opinion recently that "Main Street" is as important in the history of American literature as "Uncle Tom's Cabin." And he is probably right. Which does not mean that either "Uncle Tom's Cabin" or "Main Street" is great literature. It is generally felt about the former that it is not, and it is questionable whether "Main Street" will live as literature.
WILL PROBABLY LIVE
But as in the case of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," it is likely to live because it marks a turning point in a prevailing mode of thinking. Mr. Van Doren calls it the first gun in the revolt against dullness, just as "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was the first gun in American literature in the titanic struggle against the slave power. The importance and immortality of a book of that kind do not depend on its value as literature, but purely on its character as a turning point in the prevailing social trend. Thus Goldsmith's "The Swiss Family Robinson" is of immense value as a revolt against the prevailing tendency in the drama of that day, and there are a number of books scattered through literature that have greater historical value than actual literary significance.
Everybody familiar with the facts knows that "Main Street" is not at all a fair picture. It is an immense hymn of village hate covering some 500 pages of closely printed type. Its author admits that it was his purpose to make his readers hate the village virus. He does not claim to have written a fair picture of the village. He is a leader of a social revolt and revolutionaries are seldom fair. They can't be if they wish to succeed. They must be merciless and hate if they are to inspire enough hatred in others to attain the overthrow of the thing they hate.
But hate is not necessarily literature and to call "Main Street" a new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is not the same as calling it a work of art.

WISCONSIN GAME VANISHING FAST
When Wisconsin was without human inhabitants but the Indian, the fur trader and the missionary, it was a region teeming with big game. Tadousin and Groscleriers (circa 1658), hunters themselves as well as traders, found not only beavers, bears and wolverines in plenty, but the moose, the elk, the antelope, the woodland caribou, and the buffalo. Hennepin while prisoner of the Sioux in 1679, witnessed great buffalo hunts on the Wisconsin side of the Mississippi River. He tells of the Indians killing "wild geese" (meaning antelopes) near the shores of Lake Michigan, some where north of Milwaukee, and "wild geese" and "turkeys, very big and fat," not far south of Racine.
Just a century has elapsed since the practical disappearance of the buffalo from Wisconsin, which occurred in 1825, though there was a report of one being shot on the St. Croix River as late as 1832. Elk, it is recorded, were at Hay River in 1853, and Dr. Hoy of Racine saw beavers, muskrats, Montclair River near Lake Superior in the summer of 1845.
Dr. E. R. Wolcott of Milwaukee, who followed Nimrod in intervals unclaimed by Galen, said that wild turkeys were abundant prior to the winter of 1842-43, when the snow in March lay two feet deep, with a stout crust that shut off birds from access to the ground. At that time the turkeys became so poor and weak that they could not fly and were an easy prey to the wolves, foxes, wildcats and mink, which almost exterminated the entire race. The last wild turkey in the eastern part of the state was seen in 1846.—State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

CONNELLY DRAWS PLANS FOR CITY GARAGE, BARN

Start Construction of Building Next Summer at Cost of $25,000

Robert M. Connelly, city engineer, is drawing plans for the city garage and barn which will be constructed on a stock fair grounds next summer. The building will cost approximately $25,000 which amount was placed in the city budget for that purpose.

Because the lot is irregular the building will be pentagonal shaped. It will face W. Washington street and will have a frontage of 130 feet. The average depth of the building will be about 75 feet. The west side will be 12 feet in length the east side 116 feet and the north and northwest sides of the structure will measure respectively, 30 feet and 119 feet.

The material to be used in the structure has not been chosen but it will probably be of tile or concrete. Thirty vehicles will be accommodated with ease, while almost twice this number may be stored according to Mr. Connelly.

All equipment of the street department will be housed in the garage which will be equipped with an office, stock rooms, shower and toilet. It will be a two-story structure. Part of the street department includes a power sweeper, a horse drawn sweeper, two graders, two flushers, one sewer machine wagon, three Ford's two tonners, one Chevrolet car, three trucks, two concrete mixers, one sprinkler, one roller, one tractor and five wagons. The present building at Walnut and Washington streets will be removed and the grounds used for a parking space. This arrangement will remove much of the congestion on College-ave which results from innumerable cars parked along the curbing, according to Mr. Connelly.

Evans and Bernhardt Conduct Concluding Services in Appleton Factories

Lenten shop meetings arranged by the religious work committee of the Y. M. C. A. for this week were concluded Friday noon by meetings at the Hayton Pump and Blower Co. and Appleton Wood Producing Co. plants. Dr. Richard Evans, district superintendent of the Methodist church, spoke at the Hayton plant meeting which was attended by 23 employees, and the Rev. H. A. Bernhardt, of Emmanuel Evangelical church, spoke at the wood production plant. William Meyer played cornet solos at the meeting at the Hayton plant.

Meetings in the week were held at plants of Appleton Machine Co., Appleton Woolen Mills, Tuttle Press Co., Valley Iron Works, Appleton Wire Works and Wisconsin Wire Works. Short talks on Holy week were given by Appleton ministers at each plant. Dr. Evans used as his text "I Be Lifted Up, I Would Draw All Men Unto Me" and he told of the humanity of Christ, saying that while Napoleon, Alexander and Caesar had aspired to build up the fame of their names by force of arm and military power, Christ had made his name greater and more enduring than any by loving men.

Mr. Bernhardt took for his text a passage from John 3:16, which he called the "Golden Text of the Bible." He spoke of the love of God for the world, saying that it was so great that he gave his only begotten son. His love for man was shown in a divine way by His gift of Christ and in a human way by His faith in people. Faith in Christ as a savior is necessary, and faith is necessary in all ordinary life for salvation, Mr. Bernhardt said.

Floridans Basking Under Summer Sky, Packard Says

George H. Packard, who has been living at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. for the last few months, where he was engaged in the real estate business, returned to Appleton Thursday for an extended visit with his family. He said Mr. Packard made most of his trip to Appleton by car driving from Fort Lauderdale to Milwaukee in six days. It was necessary to complete the journey to Appleton by train because of drifted roads. The climate in Fort Lauderdale all through the winter was ideal and that now the Florida weather corresponds to Wisconsin in July. The real estate season in Florida has practically closed because of the approach of spring and summer in the northern states. The season will reopen in the later fall months.

All schools of the county will be asked to make posters for the campaign and milk poster contests will be held. Programs also will be held and all stores of the county will be asked to cooperate by displaying the posters during milk week.

The need for the campaign is shown in a survey made by Miss

Morse Klein, county nurse. Miss Klein visited 500 children in 16 communities of the county and found that only 50 per cent habitually used milk. Of the remainder 26 per cent use it occasionally and the other 24 per cent not at all. Miss Klein stated that not only the children but also the parents needed to be educated to use more milk.

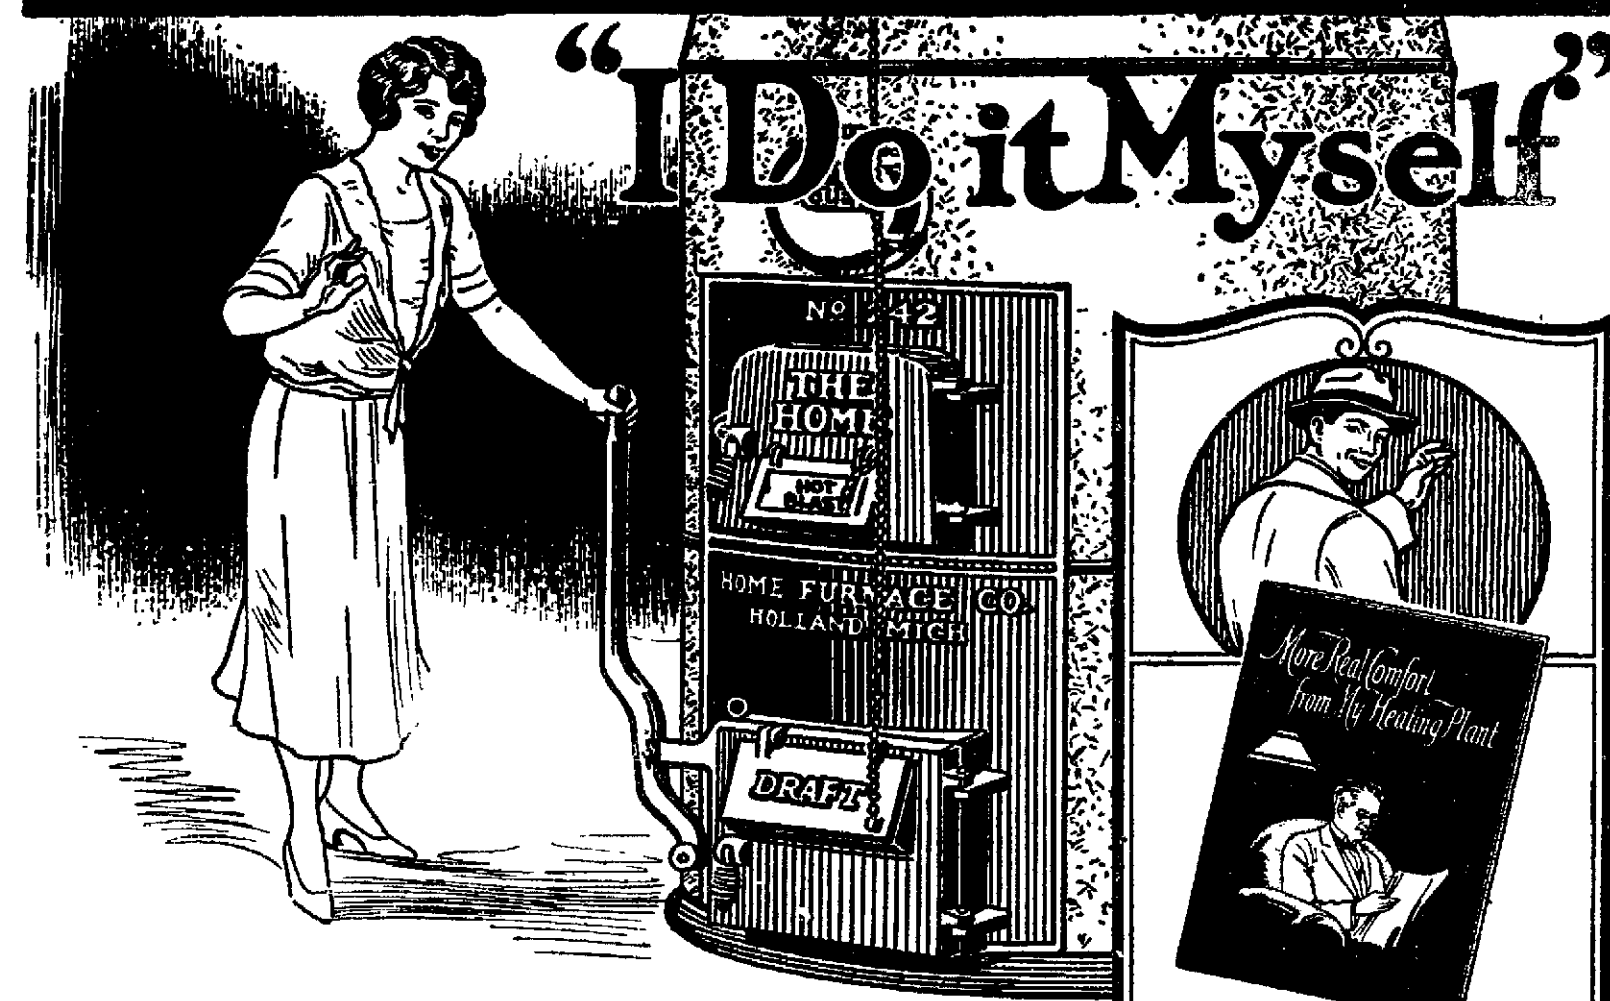

Committees are being organized to push the advertising and to seek the cooperation of the merchants in presenting window displays of milk products. During the week each rural school will present a play entitled "Milk Parties" and Parent Teachers associations will be asked to hold meetings during the week. Speakers probably will be provided for some of the meetings and milk programs will be presented. Every school will be visited during the week and a talk will be given at each by a worker in the home economic department of state college of agriculture. Literature and buttons advertising milk and milk products will be distributed to the children.

The HOME Hot Blast FURNACE

YES, indeed. I no longer need any help to keep the house cozy and warm when husband's away for the week.

"You see, with our old, worn-out furnace it was so hard to keep warm. John dreaded to leave me and the children alone. Often during blizzards and cold snaps, it was really hard work with so much coal to be shoveled and having to clean out the ashes every day or so. And that meant dust in the house and extra work upstairs and down.

"But now, with the HOME Hot Blast Furnace, indeed, I do it myself—and easily, too.

"To begin with, our HOME has a long shaker handle that makes it easy to operate the self-cleaning grate. I can do it with one hand and the children can do it, too.

"Then, there is the Hot Blast Ring that burns up the soot and smoke. That means less fuel to shovel and less ashes to move—in fact, John handles them for me when he returns home every Saturday night. The water-tight ash pit bottom, too, means no dust in the house.

"There hasn't been a moment since the HOME Furnace Company installed our heating system, that every corner hasn't been cozy. John worries no longer about me when he is away. He knows that the whole family is comfy and happy."

Every HOME Furnace is factory-installed and guaranteed-to-heat for five whole years. With careful use it will last a lifetime. Every HOME user must be satisfied.

TRUST CO. WINS SUIT WITH LAND CO. OF NICHOLS

Judge Werner Awards Judgment of $36,000 to Appleton Firm

The First Trust Co. of Appleton, was awarded a judgment of more than $36,000 against the Nichols Land Co. of Nichols, A. L. Nichols, and F. S. and A. S. Bradford, doing business as Bradford and Bradford, by Judge Edgar V. Werner Thursday afternoon in circuit court. The suit was the result of an alleged breach of contract between the defendants and the First Trust Co., which was trustee of bonds issued by the Nichols Land Co.

The Nichols company had issued first mortgage, 6 per cent bonds amounting to $35,000 and Mr. Nichols had endorsed the trustees' certificates guaranteeing the principal and interest on the bonds. The trust company was made trustee and was given the mortgage. The Nichols Co. agreed to pay the principal on the bonds when it became due and also to agree not to give a second mortgage on the property, the local firm alleged.

When the principal became due on Dec. 31, 1925, the Nichols Land Co. failed to pay the trust company alleged. A second mortgage was given to the State Bank of Nichols, another violation of terms, the First Trust Co. said.

The judgment against the Nichols Land Co. was for $35,000 for principal on the bonds, $520.83 for interest to date, $350 for solicitors' fee, $75 for trustees' fee, and $65.65 court costs.

GRANT 13 PERMITS TO BUILD HOMES HERE LAST MONTH

Fewer Construction Permits Authorized in March of 1926 Than Last Year

Permits for the construction of 13 residences were issued by George Peotter, city building inspector in March as compared with 18 permits issued for the construction of homes in March, 1925. The total number of building permits issued in March, 1926 was 31, while in March 1925 60 construction permits were issued, almost twice the number granted this year. There is not such a wide difference, however, between the cost of construction authorized in March, 1926 and that in March 1925, the total for the current year being $92,125 and that for last year being $101,386.50. This is a decrease of $9,261.50.

The total cost of residence construction on last year's report was $62,425, while this year the figure was $55,900. Construction of ten garages was authorized last month at a total cost of $1,400 as compared to 17 garages permits in March, 1925 at a cost of $3,935.

The report showed that during the month 21 inspections were made and one violation found which has been satisfactorily settled. There were no cases for the zoning board of appeals.

LIFE'S SUNNY AFTERNOON

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this old reliable root and herb medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

To The Voters of The City of Appleton:

Following are a few plain statements I wish to make before you vote on April 6th.

If elected Mayor I am going to make every effort possible to reduce public expenditures, and get a lower tax rate.

I am opposed to spending any money that is not absolutely necessary.

I will make every effort possible to get the schools on a stable financial basis, and with the help of the Board of Education, which I know I will have, I am sure this will be accomplished.

Everything will be done to hurry the paving of Cherry street south of the bridge, and Winnebago County given all help possible to open Cherry street from Seymour to Foster streets.

Every effort will be made to have the majority of people living on all streets to be paved, decide as to whether it is to be paved, and the kind of pavement to be used, and all petitions presented to the Council will be given every consideration.

In all things in which I am required to vote my vote will be explained, and every effort made to vote for the best interest of the city, I may make a mistake but my vote will be sincere.

I am not obligated to any particular party, parties, or sections of the city, and will perform all duties connected with the office for the best interest of the city, I may have to get advice but in getting this advice I will get it from people who are sincere.

As to my ability to serve you as Mayor you must be the judge of that. I have served you as Assessor of Incomes for five years, and as City Assessor for five years, if you are satisfied with my work in these offices, give me a chance to serve you as Mayor, and when my term is completed I feel confident you will be satisfied with my work.

Your vote for me as Assessor in the last two elections, certainly shows that you have confidence in me as an Assessor.

I will be in the office during all reasonable business hours each day, and as much more time as is necessary to give you a good, clean, honest, economical, administration.

If elected Mayor I want the citizens to feel that the Mayor's office is their office, and they will be welcome to use it at all times.

I will make every effort to complete all projects started, and oppose the starting of any new project until it has been properly financed.

Yours for a good, clean, economical, and efficient government.

THE YELLOW STUB
by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found mysteriously murdered in a cheap hotel. The only clues are a woman's handkerchief and a yellow ticket stub from the Paragon Theater in Milwaukee.

JIMMY, the murdered man's son, decides to go to Milwaukee until the mystery is solved. He and DETECTIVE MOONEY trace the ticket to a THOMAS FOGGART, who proves an alibi and says he gave it to a woman named OLGA MAYNARD. Police search for her for days.

JANET RAND, Jimmy's sister, breaks her engagement with HARRY COLVIN, and Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. While with Mary at a cafe he accidentally runs into Olga Maynard and makes an engagement with her for the next night.

She breaks down under his questions and faints. He is lifting her into a taxi when Mary, who is with another man, sees him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

Jimmy fumbled helplessly trying to revive the woman who slumped beside him in the taxi cab seat. He slapped her wrists, called to her, looked beseechingly at the driver, but that worthy was gazing imperturbably ahead and minding his own business.

The rough jolting of the cab finally did what he was unable to do. She opened her eyes, looked at him and then began to cry.

He was sorry he had been so brutal with her, and angry that he had been unable to get any satisfactory explanation from her.

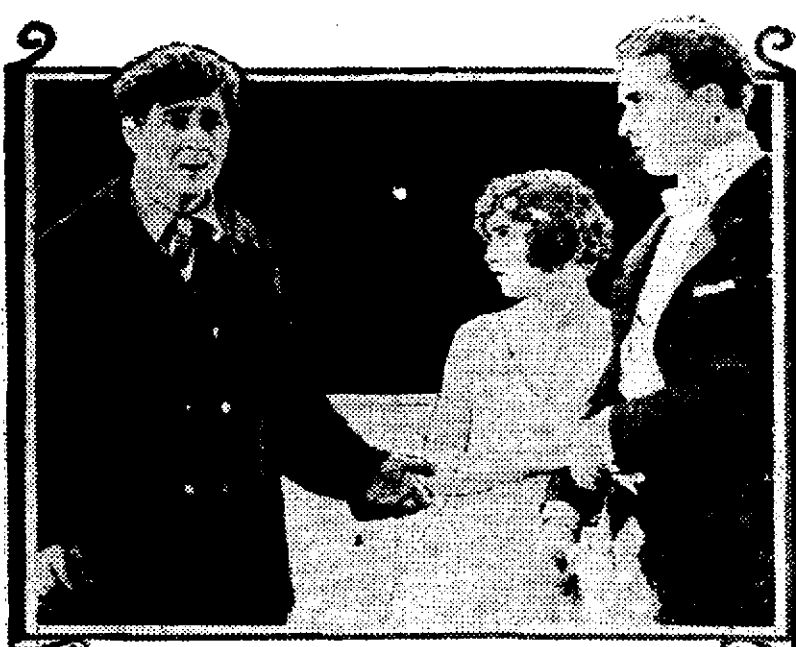

Tears had streaked her rouge. Her hair—bleached, Jimmy concluded—was in disarray.

"What are you doing to do?" she asked. Her handkerchief was pressed closely to her mouth. Jimmy barely heard her.

"I don't know. Perhaps it would be better for you to give yourself up to the police. They'll find you anyway in time."

"How can I explain to them? I can't tell them anymore than I've told you. If you don't believe me, they won't. She was crying again.

"Do some thinking. Try to remember what could have happened to the theater stub after you used it. He was trying to be kind to her. He felt, uncomfortable, self-reproachful, in the face of her tears.

PAUL PANZER, ROSE BLOSSOM, AND RAYMOND BLOOMER IN "THE FOOL" BY WILLIAM FOX SUPREME ATTRACTION AT THE NEW BIJOU FOUR DAYS STARTING TODAY.

"Who is that, Mac?" he asked the young fellow at the next desk.

"Who? Oh, that's Church—Sam Church. He's one of the attorneys for the Q. and R. Handles a lot of death and accident claims. Comes in here quite a lot and makes it a point to give a little dictation once in a while to the boss' stenographer. I think he's pretty sweet on her myself."

"I see—thanks."

"As a matter of fact," Mac continued, "I have a sneaking suspicion that Miss Lowell doesn't exactly hate Sam Church. Good looking dog. Built like a bull in the upper story—chest and shoulders—and like a greyhound below. Got a lot of money, too. I hear. That's all you need to get along in this world, Rand—money. I'll buy anything."

"You think, Mac?" Jimmy asked, "that money can buy love?"

Mac was slow in answering. Rand said, "It'll buy anything. There's nothing in this sentimental love in a cottage stuff. I know. I was engaged once. Then war came along and I went away, with her crying and everybody promising wonderful things for the boys we came back."

He cursed. "And then what happened? My girl marries one of these fat profiteers that stayed safe at home and made a pile of money while they were digging machine gun bullets out of me in France."

"Tats!" he said. "Give me a million and I'll have everything I want and do anything I want. And if I overstep the law I can buy myself off. John Law doesn't bother the guy with dough. But he makes us poor fish step."

"Mac," said Jimmy, "I think you're wrong. I hope you're wrong." He bent over his desk as Church came out of Mary's office, talking in low tones to the chief clerk, Hilton. The same amused smile was playing over his features as he passed Jimmy and walked out of the main office door.

"Mary—" he stood in front of the water cooler, making a pretense of drinking, and blocking her path—"Mary, I know it looked rotten. Just give me a chance to explain."

"Mr. Rand—please!" She was looking through him rather than at him. Her dark blue eyes cold as ice.

"Let me explain, Mary—after five o'clock. Give me a chance, he pleaded.

"It is not necessary, Mr. Rand. I am able to understand what I see without the aid of an interpreter," she stepped past him and was gone. He breathed again that subtle fragrance of her hair, as he had done the night he danced with her.

He stood staring after her retreating figure with hunger in his eyes.

Shortly before five o'clock Hilton called him into his private office and told him he was discharged.

"We're giving you a week's salary instead of the customary two weeks that we allow our discharged employees. Considering the short length of your stay here, I think that is fairly generous."

Jimmy took it calmly, without so much as rising or coughing. "Anything wrong with my work?" he asked. "I at least did my best while I was here."

"No, Rand, not a thing. In fact, I thought you were doing very well. It's just a case of cutting expenses, and, as you're the last man to be taken on, you're naturally the first to go. Sorry."

Jimmy felt like saying: "You're firing Mr. Hilton. As soon as I go you'll hire someone in my place."

Mac said nothing, but gazed abstractedly toward Hilton's office and clicked his pen against his teeth.

"Mac," said Jimmy a little later, "blast them all. Do you hear?"

He was clearing his desk when Mac's hand fell on his shoulder. He could feel the grip gradually tighten until the flesh ached under the pressure of Mac's fingers.

Mac stood like that for some time. Then he turned silently and hobbled away. . . . His bullet-shattered leg was stiff as a ramrod from ankle to hip.

Inside the chief clerk's office, Mr. Hilton was dictating to his secretary.

"A memorandum to the cashier, Miss Lowell, to the effect that Mr. Rand has been taken off the payroll."

Her flying pencil stopped and slipped from her fingers. The shorthand characters in her notebook became suddenly a meaningless array of hieroglyphics.

"Another memorandum, Miss Lowell, to the auditor."

She recovered her pencil. It began again to move swiftly over the page, in rhythm to his voice.

When he had finished dictating she ran to the outer office and looked toward Jimmy's desk. He had left. The office was empty. . . . She gazed for a long time at the door through which he had gone.

Jimmy walked to his room through streets crowded with home-going workers. He walked without seeing, unmindful of the way he was jostled in the crowds.

He said aloud: "Why was I fired? She condemned me without hearing me. She judged me without a trial," he said again and again. "Why was I fired? Why was I fired?"

He climbed the stairs to his room and found a telegram on the dresser. Absently he opened the yellow envelope and noticed that it was from Detective Mooney.

He heard the shrill voice of Mrs. King, the landlady, calling up the stairs. "Telephone, Mr. Rand."

He picked up the receiver. "Hello," he said.

A man's voice answered. "Hello—Rand?"

"Yes, this is Rand."

"Rand, this is Lieutenant O'Day at headquarters. Come down here right away."

Polarine
THE PERFECT MOTOR OIL

CONSULT CHART

Count the Cost of Poor Oil

and you will realize the importance of perfect lubrication. Repair bills and bills for overhauling are only a part of the cost of poor oil.

It is estimated that the premature scrapping of approximately three million cars a year is in a large measure due to faulty lubrication. The cost of poor oil is prohibitive.

To keep your engine properly oiled all the time is a simple matter. Employ the aid of lubricating experts to determine the particular kind of oil for your type of engine. Consult the chart at any Standard Oil Service Station or Authorized Garage, and use the grade of Polarine that is there recommended and designed expressly for your car.

Polarine is the perfect motor oil. Use it and you will enjoy a smooth running car, and save money. Correct oiling pays.

SMART SENATORS USE PRESIDENT TO GARNER VOTES

Letter of Introduction to Coolidge Sure Way of Winning Support

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington — About the cheapest, surest way a senator or representative has of winning a vote for himself is by getting a constituent to see the White House to see the president.

He can do it without the least bother to himself too.

At an interview of any constituent with the chief executive, calls for a good reason and quite a lot of facts unless the applicant is pretty important, but just getting into the room with him shaking his head he doesn't do any of the shaking and having him say "Howdy do" isn't difficult.

But the average senator or representative makes a big thing of it. He professes that he couldn't do it for a reward, but on account of his exceedingly high regard for Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge he'll strain a point to write a note to Private Secretary Sanders who'll manage it somehow.

In reality the senator or representative is tickled pink at the opportunity.

He isn't out anything except a sheet of paper. It's no trouble because he'll bring his name at the bottom of a letter written by his stenographer. At the very least there is on somebody else—the president.

The visitor's duck is from out of town remember—Washingtonians are more sophisticated—goes up to the White House about 11:30 to noon with his precious letter as well with out one but what he doesn't know can't hurt him.

He's allowed to poke around for a while in that part of the establishment not specially reserved for the presidential family and by the time it's about 12:30 and he's had an eye full on an average there are a couple of hundred of him on hand.

Then he's herded into a procession through the presidential office. The president stands up at his desk and shakes hands a couple of hundred times on an average in succession.

As previously remarked he says "Howdy do" or "Pleased to meet you" if he's feeling very original and maybe mutters the caller's name if he catches it.

That's all there is to it.

There isn't an ordinary reception such as anybody can attend mind you.

This is something special.

You have to have a letter from a senator or representative to get away with it. At least you think you do.

It's something to go home and brag about. You've got influence.

Naturally you're under obligations to the senator or representative who gave you the letter. The next time you get a chance you vote for him if you've got any gratitude in your make-up.

The constituent's senator and representative also gives him tickets to the reserve gallery in their respective chambers—reserved for "distinguished visitors" by grace.

These cards are elegantly engraved. They look swell.

If that on top of access to the White House doesn't do the business as to said constituent's particular vote you can count that constituent a regular monster of thanklessness.

400 SEEK RIGHT TO BROADCAST

Government Swamped With Requests from Stations to Get on Overloaded Air

Washington — In the files of the radio department of the United States Department of Commerce lies a book. In the book rest more than 400 names and addresses, representing as many hopes that seem forlorn and unavailing today. They are hopes of applicants for new broadcasting stations for licenses that the department of Commerce has refused to grant.

Some of these hopes are based on nothing but expressed wishes. Others find their foundation on new stations already erected but unable to broadcast because of no available wavelength. The Department of Commerce refuses to issue more licenses for fear of congesting the ether beyond its present crowded condition.

If the 400 applicants contained in this book were granted the number of broadcasting stations would jump to 933—there being 533 in operation at present. Little less than bedlam in an already tense situation would result.

A whole catalog would be required to index the diversity of interests seeking to "go on the air"—ranging from a nursery to a state political committee. Between these two extremes applications are being received from taxi companies, ballrooms, food markets, dry goods stores, film development companies, health institutes, talking machine shops, theaters, optical companies, automobile parts

HOME TIES ARE STRONGER THAN COURT JUSTICE

Home ties proved to be stronger than the desire for justice as the court metes it out, when Kate Kobussen of Little Chute, agreed to "take back" her husband, William, instead of prosecuting the charge of assault against him.

The case was scheduled in municipal court Saturday morning. The defendant was arrested at Little Chute Tuesday morning while under the influence of liquor. His wife stated that he beat her, and she swore out a warrant charging assault.

But for the sake of the children and home ties," Mrs. Kobussen stated that William could come back. He agreed to be good and quit his drinking.

REPORT CATTLE PRICES HIGHER THAN YEAR AGO

Extraordinary prices for cattle in this vicinity recently have run as high as 50 per cent above the prices paid a year ago, it was stated Saturday by Art Collentine, cattle marketing expert from the college of agriculture.

The unusual figures recorded were brought out at recent auction sales, he stated. Most sales averaged about $25 a head last fall. Holsteins have been commanding a figure ranging from $30 to $125 with Guernseys bringing about $140, he stated.

Cattle experts state that in the past it took a market for butterfat at 65 cents a pound for a year to hold up such cow prices. They add that present cattle prices are not justified by 19 cent cheese.
